

Scottish Interfaith Week

2 - 9 November 2025

Our Future

www.scottishinterfaithweek.org

We know many of you are busy planning your events for Scottish

Only two months until the festival begins 🞉

Interfaith Week and we can't wait to hear about them!

programme and promoted on our social media. If you missed the theme announcement, this year's festival is about

Remember you can submit your event to be included in our online

'Our Future'. We encourage you to tailor your event around one of the key issues for Scotland's young people: education, climate, mental health, poverty and discrimination.

Latest resources for you

These fresh posters are hot off the press and available to download

Encourage people in your area to get involved 🤏 from our website. Why not print out a few for your workplace, school, local library or community centre? We love to see these posters displayed in local places. If you get a chance to snap a photo of a poster in the wild, please send it along to us! ★ Download posters at scottishinterfaithweek.org/resources step-by-step approach to planning your event, including advice on:

 engaging with young people choosing an issue to explore choosing an event format

- finding an event partner (local charity, public figure, school etc.) designing accessible posters
- ★ Download guide at scottishinterfaithweek.org/resources

audiences and publicly available on YouTube.

At your event you could show the film as part of your activities. Watch film on YouTube

Week.

festival week.

Our Booklist for Libraries is a list of books related to faith and culture which are suitable for children and young adults.

★ Download at scottishinterfaithweek.org/resources Schools and teachers

This list can be used to create exciting book displays during the

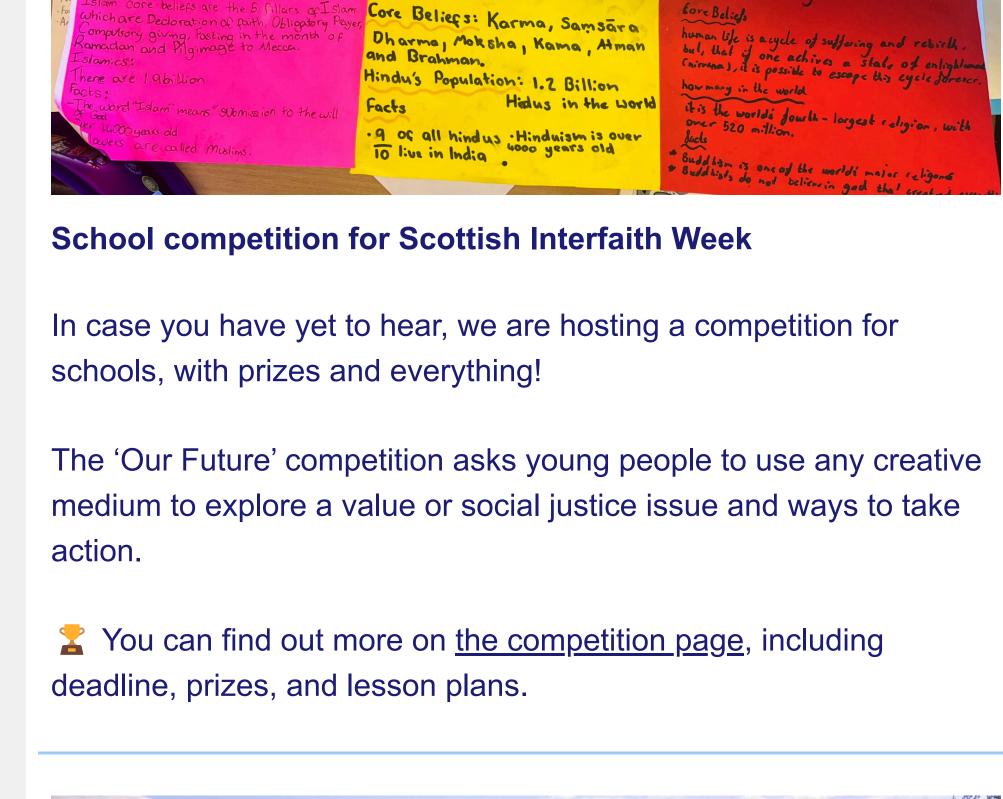

Hinduism

2300 B.C. and 1500 B.C. near modern-day

· World's largest religion

here is When a girl turns

• promote the festival in a newsletter mention the festival in a community meeting • think about your own networks – who would be interested in putting on an event?

volunteer to help at an event near you

• ask your local library or community hub to hold an event Join us for the journey on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram

Read newsletters

To keep updated on #SIFW2025 follow us on:

Contact email: info@scottishinterfaithweek.org Want to change how you receive these emails?

Scottish Charitable Incorporated Organisation. Charity Number: SC029486.

you can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this list.

Scottish Interfaith Week in association with Interfaith Scotland.